

Residential Pool Pump Rebates

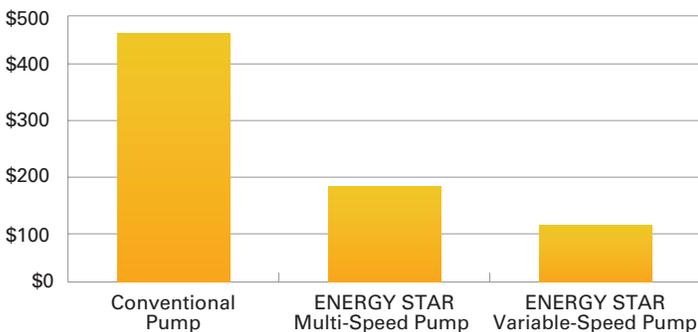

Dive into Home Energy Savings

Why Buy an ENERGY STAR® Certified Pool Pump?

A properly installed and maintained ENERGY STAR certified pool pump uses 70 percent less energy than a conventional pool pump and can save you up to $340 per year in energy costs. Energy-efficient pool pumps also run quieter and can prolong the life of your pool's filtering system.*

Plus, when you replace your standard pool pump with a qualifying energy-efficient model, you can take advantage of SMECO rebates up to $400. You can save now with rebates and save for years to come through reduced energy costs. While a variable-speed or two-speed pool pump may cost more upfront, the savings will generally pay back the difference in less than two years.

Annual Energy Costs for Pool Pumps

Two-speed models use a low speed for filtration and a high speed for cleaning, reducing pump electricity use by up to 50 percent. Variable-speed models alternate between slow and fast modes to deliver the right flow for different tasks, reducing pump electricity use by up to 75 percent.
